Music and Song
inspired by Matienzo, above and below ground.

This ‘jukebox’ will hopefully grow with music files inspired by Matienzo. The files can be live recordings or be files produced using AI for some or all aspects. Currently, March 2026, all the files have been produced with the aid of AI.

With modern artificial intelligence apps it is possible, for nearly everybody with ideas for songs, to transform those thoughts into lyrics and then songs.

The current batch of 21 songs offered here were generated in response to possible windfarm development threats, the scenery around Matienzo and aspects of the underworld. There are multiple repeats with different (possibly inappropriate) music styles. The words in the left panel are those being sung, the right-hand panel has the other language – sometimes an approximate translation.

How’s it done using AI?

- Give any text (incoherent notes, a paragraph, a document) to an AI app with the prompt, e.g. “Transform this text into lyrics - 4 verses with a chorus, suitable for a Country and Western song. The title for the lyrics is “Whatever, whenever, etc”. (Or write your own, fully-formed lyrics.)
- Receive the lyrics a few seconds later and check / alter / try again.
  (You may then want to use AI to translate the lyrics.)
- Pass the human-approved lyrics to a song-making app, e.g. Suno, providing a Style for the song, e.g. Calypso, C&W, Flamenco, etc, etc.
- Build up a library of songs within Suno; download .mp3 files for playing outside of Suno.

All contributions are welcome!

These can be .mp3 files, or incomplete thoughts – i.e. lyrics, with Style ideas for passing into Suno.
Some ideas for song generation: cave passages; hard trip; formations; surface prospecting “choked”; campsite; etc, etc.
People with words / music ideas who are uneasy about using AI to generate songs may wish to read an AI response.

Juan Corrin
March 2026